

Tigerron Wells

Director of Governmental Affairs, Municipal Association of South Carolina; 2011 Fellow

Tigerron Wells is the Director of Governmental Affairs for the Municipal Association of South Carolina. He serves as a voice for South Carolina's 271 incorporated municipalities and as an advocate on their behalf before the South Carolina General Assembly. Wells draws from his years of experience as an attorney, bridge builder, and creative problem solver to advocate for policies, rules, or legislation that support the efficient and effective operation of the state's municipalities, and positively impacts the residents of those municipalities as a result.

In his role with the Association, Wells also directs the activities of the SC Municipal Attorneys Association, an affiliate of the Municipal Association that serves the municipalities of the state by seeking to connect and enrich the community of municipal attorneys by providing valuable education programming through an annual CLE and ongoing guidance and information throughout the year.

Wells received his J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law.
