

- 3M Company is receiving the President's Award from the National Association for Women Lawyers for advancing women.
- Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld LLP is piloting a program that provides on-site counseling services for lawyers.
- Responding to employee concerns, Amazon.com is now applying the "Rooney Rule" for all open board positions.
- Corporate counsel discussed the importance of intentional inclusion at the Associates Committee for Diversity & Inclusion Speaker Series event hosted by Greenberg Traurig, LLP.
- After challenging its ad agencies to increase the diversity of their teams, HP Inc. saw a 35 percent increase in revenue per ad impression, as well as a six point increase in purchase intent.
- Linklaters LLP is launching a hotline and encouraging relationship disclosures in order to prevent issues that may arise from relationships between colleagues.
- Aiming to increase diversity and discover new talent, Microsoft Corporation has partnered with the University of Washington to hire and train people with autism.
- Morrison & Foerster LLP and Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP are among the top 10 firms on The American Lawyer's 2018 Diversity Scorecard.
- Reed Smith LLP rolled out a series of innovations to support associates, including a feedback app, inter-office secondments, new categories for billable hours, and a reverse mentoring program.
- According to the 2018 Diversity Scorecard, Shutts & Bowen LLP has the highest percentage of Hispanic attorneys (16.1%), and Constangy, Brooks, Smith & Prophete LLP has the highest percentage of African-American attorneys (9.2%).
- Starbucks Coffee Company closed stores nationwide and held implicit bias training for its 175,000 employees.