For the Fellows Program

Things
You Should Know

1 The Fellows
Program is Game-Changing

It's also a rigorous, year-long commitment. To help you interact with your Fellows, set expectations, and inform your managers about the demands made on Fellows, please take a moment to review the basics.

► Know the Program

Three In-Person Meetings. Dynamic topics are presented by LCLD Members, Fellows Alumni, and subject-matter experts.

Learning Experiences. Hosted by LCLD Member General Counsel, these day-long events give Fellows a unique opportunity to learn more about Member companies through interaction with in-house counsel and key business leaders.

Leadership Lunches. Co-hosted by one General Counsel and one Managing Partner, these small group gatherings give LCLD Members an opportunity to directly invest in the Fellows through roundtable discussions on leadership and professional development.

Regional and National Networking. Fellows are supported in their efforts to gather formally and informally throughout their Fellowship year. Each is assigned an Accountability Partner, and the Fellows Alumni Regional Committee plans networking events across the country.

Online Learning. Designed to bridge the geographic distance between Fellows, interactive online exercises build on the teachings of in-person meetings and provide on-demand substantive content.

2 Your Leadership
Lights the Path
for Success

As a Member of LCLD, you've already made a personal commitment to creating a more diverse legal profession. And by sharing your leadership with Fellows, you will teach and inspire them to get the most out of the program. A few suggestions:

► Meet with your Fellows before their first meeting in March. Schedule meetings with your Fellows after each in-person meeting and plan to check in with them regularly over the course of the Fellowship year.

► Set expectations with your Fellows and communicate how important it is that they meet the program's requirements:

- Attend all three in-person meetings
- Attend a Leadership Lunch and Learning Experience
- Respond to all surveys
- Participate in online exercises
- Connect with your Accountability Partner
- Stay active in the alumni community

► Identify leadership opportunities in your organization where the Fellows can practice what they learn in the Fellows Program.

► Set expectations with Fellows' managers and make sure they understand the travel and time commitments required of all LCLD Fellows. Here again, your support is vital.

Your Time is an Unparalleled Resource

Your active participation is vital to the program's success. Anything you can do to directly engage in the Fellows Program will pay enormous dividends. Here are some great ways to participate.

- ▶ Host a Leadership Lunch
- ▶ Host a Learning Experience
(GC Members only)
- ▶ Speak at a Fellows meeting
- ▶ Host a regional event
- ▶ Share your expertise in an online learning exercise
- ▶ Provide feedback to LCLD and share lessons learned with LCLD and other Members

This tool kit is designed to help you maximize the value of the Fellows Program for you, your Fellow, and your organization. For more information on the Fellows Program, please contact one of the LCLD staff members below.
